1. Reserved spot. This agreement takes effect when Featured Artist receives the fee. The fee reserves the described feature and covers its performance, recording and delivery. Any extra fee must be agreed in writing before recording.

2. Delivery. Client sends the finished track; the delivery window starts when it arrives. Featured Artist will perform personally and supply original work with no uncleared outside material. If the track is declined or delivery is missed, Client may send written notice. If not fixed within five business days, Artist must refund the full lock in fee within five more business days and this reservation ends.

3. Separate rights. This reservation does not transfer master, songwriting or publishing ownership or set royalty shares. Both parties must sign the necessary split sheet and release permissions before releasing or commercially using the feature.

4. Public matters and moral failure. Before or after delivery, Client may cancel in writing if credible public controversy or serious misconduct involving Featured Artist reasonably threatens Client's reputation or project. This includes abuse, fraud, harassment, violence or hateful conduct. The notice must identify the matter and basis for concern. Featured Artist must immediately refund all fees paid under this agreement upon receipt of the notice, with no cure period. Client must stop using the feature. A separate signed rights agreement is not changed unless it adopts this clause.

5. General. Featured Artist is an independent contractor. Indiana law governs, subject to mandatory law. This is the entire reservation deal; changes require both signatures. Notices go to the emails above. Electronic signatures are accepted.
